INTERNATIONAL WINE BUSINESS
(B.Sc.)

The Whole World of Wine in an English-speaking Degree Program

www.hs-geisenheim.de

Stand 11/2019
The B.Sc. International Wine Business degree program offers students flexibility regarding their academic focus, enabling them to follow their preferred career path upon graduation.

Over 80% of our graduates work in product management, marketing and sales, as experts for import and export or in wine purchasing. Further career paths include quality management, finance as well as human resources management, accounting or market research. Our graduates are in demand – whether in wine and beverage retail, trade, individual wineries or cooperatives, suppliers or journalism.

Hochschule Geisenheim University is world-renowned in the fields of viticulture, enology, beverage technology and wine business. Our professors and scientists are involved in fundamental and applied research, which is closely linked to practical applications.

Research and higher education have a long tradition in Geisenheim, reaching back to 1872, when the “Royal Prussian Institute of Pomology and Viticulture” was founded. Our facilities are located on one campus, where students benefit from a close working relationship with teaching staff.

Another strength: Of all small universities in Germany, Hochschule Geisenheim University has the highest number of students doing an ERASMUS internship abroad – and the most international cooperations.

In Germany there is a tradition of no tuition fees and this, together with the comparably moderate cost of living in the Rhine Valley area around Wiesbaden makes Geisenheim an attractive place to study.

Professional Prospects for Graduates
The B.Sc. International Wine Business degree program offers students flexibility regarding their academic focus, enabling them to follow their preferred career path upon graduation.

Over 80% of our graduates work in product management, marketing and sales, as experts for import and export or in wine purchasing. Further career paths include quality management, finance as well as human resources management, accounting or market research. Our graduates are in demand – whether in wine and beverage retail, trade, individual wineries or cooperatives, suppliers or journalism.

The B.Sc. International Wine Business at Hochschule Geisenheim University combines business with knowledge of viticulture and enology, i.e. it includes in-depth knowledge of business management, marketing and winemaking. Our students are also equipped with key skills in languages and project management. Knowledge of German is not required.

We are strongly focused on preparing our students for the challenges of professional life, running projects and case studies, involving lecturers from industry and offering numerous excursions. Thanks to Hochschule Geisenheim University’s numerous connections in the wine industry, students make important contacts very early on.

IN-DEPTH AND PRACTICE-ORIENTED
Degree Program Content
The first year builds the foundation for the rest of the degree program, with modules such as Business Operations and Economics, Marketing Basics, Law, Sensory Evaluation as well as World Wine Markets. Second year compulsory modules include Wine & Beverage Marketing, Marketing Projects, Business Management, Management Accounting, Viticulture and Enology. The compulsory modules also include the Bachelor’s thesis and an internship abroad or in an international company.

Students can additionally choose from over 30 semi-compulsory and optional modules, thus strengthening their own professional profile - for example:

- Modules such as Investment & Corporate Finance or Business Plan prepare students for a career in Management and Finance.
- Students who are interested in a career in Marketing can choose modules in E-Commerce or Market Research.
- A focus on international markets is backed up by a wide range of country-related marketing projects as well as business and technical language courses.
