

I am a Norwegian/German guy of all morethantwenty years, born and raised here in Norway. After a full track with Norwegian school, and an instructive year in Germany, I came here to Ås. Here I have counted sheep, determined lichen and mush more as a biology student, and it is not as sleep inducing as it may sound.

But I must confess that it is the student democracy that has grabbed me. First as part of the student council bio forb bioscience, the faculty board, the student parliament and student council presidency. Because it is fun, and because it motivates me. It's fun to be a part of this university. That is why the board for the student parliament (AU) is what I want to do next. AU is the place where one can do the most for us at NMBU. Where we encourage people to enjoy their studies and student life.

NMBU could be better, and we must always work to improve it. Last year was shit for many of us. We must face forward, but also remember to enjoy the current too. No matter who wins this, I know I want to be a part of it.

As a person, I like how much interesting stuff there is in the world, and love when people have a passion. I love to learn from passionate people, like on sites like redidt or youtube, from old cameras to that why Hexagons are bestagons. I love music, who does not?
