

Supplementary rules to NMBU's Regulations for the degree of Philosophiae doctor (PhD) at the Department of Environmental Sciences.

These rules were adopted in the spring of 2015 and are pursuant to NMBU's Regulations for the degree of Philosophiae doctor (PhD), adopted 15 May 2014.

COMPLETION

Section 7 Academic supervision

The principal supervisors for PhD candidates are appointed from among the department's permanent academic staff (professors, associate professors and researchers). Staff in adjunct professor/adjunct associate professor positions may serve as principal supervisors provided that a permanent academic staff member is a co-supervisor. Other researchers having relevant specialized competence can be appointed as co-supervisors, including from other departments, both national or international.